NOW THAT SUMMER has arrived, by weather as well as by the calendar, those people who had suggested gloomily in May that perhaps there was not going to be any summer this year, will have to find something else to worry about, weatherwise, that is.

Chances are they will be the same ones who will groan about any heat wave that extends more than three days this summer.

The weather, however, will always continue to be the prime conversational-opener. We all recognize its importance in that respect.

It's a topic that probably has kept more dull cocktail parties going than any other single subject.

The reason for its popularity, of course, is that everyone is affected by the weather in one way or another.

And no one can do anything about it.

Thus it makes for a good sound neutral area in non-controversial conversations.

Even the "establishment" can't be blamed for it.

-0-

STILL, MAY WAS A PE-culiar month, as far as the climate was concerned in this area.

It was "unusual", to coin a phrase.

Ordinarily summer gets a good start during May.

But that was not the case this year.

In fact there is some question as to whether the weather in May could be classified even as springtime this year.

We take our weather in stride, more or less, recognizing that it is one of the many fields in which we have no influence. But we have learned from Homer Hyde, of the Campbell Water Co., just what the weather this May meant to that company.

Homer reported that water consumption in May by Campbell Water Co., users was off 20% from that of May the previous year.

That brings the situation really into focus.

The weather was so chilly that the water company customers took it easy in the watering of lawns and gardens.

We didn't realize, until Homer told us, that there was such a direct relationship between the weather and water consumption.

Obviously, we were aware, of course, that more water is used during the summer months than in the other seasons of the year.

But we hadn't realized that May this year was so much different from May a year ago, that it would affect water consumption by 20%.

Or to put it another way, we had forgotten what kind of weather we had in May a year ago.

But we don't recall people wondering about whether summer was ever going to arrive last year.

Like they did this May.

-0-

NATURALLY PRO-longed heat waves will increase water consumption.

People will water their yards like crazy when the weather is warm for any length of time.

But around here, the way the sprinklers regularly go during the hot summer months under normal conditions, we wonder if water consumption during those torrid months varies to any great extent, because of the periodical heat waves that we have.

We question whether water consumption in the hot summer months ever increases by 20% over a previous summer's consumption, unless this is "unusual" weather.

It has been our observation that much of the summer watering that goes on in the residential areas is on a fairly stable schedule, once the summer really gets going. We mean so many hours per week seems to be set aside for watering, the weather notwithstanding.

We can see where operating a water company could be-

FROM COUNTRY WOMAN'S CLUB

Council rejects clubhouse offer

By a 3-2 vote the City Council on Monday night turned down the offer of the Country Woman's Club for the 48-year-old clubhouse at Campbell Ave. and First St.

The Woman's Club, through the club's president, Mrs. Fran Grell, on May 24 had offered the historic meeting hall to the city at no charge, but with the stipulation that the club could continue to use it as a meeting place weekly.

Subsequently, in conferences with the club's attorney and the city attorney, it was further stipulated that should the city remove or sell the building, the city would have to find a suitable meeting place for the club or the property would revert to that organization.

In voting against the acceptance of the building, Councilman Ed Rogers pointed out that the city would be saddled not only with the costs of bringing the building up to code, which could cost as much as $10,000, but also would have an annual maintenance cost that could reach $5000.

Councilman Bill Podgorsek, who also voted against the gift, questioned the need of another city building because the space that is available in the almost-completed city hall.

Councilman Bill Smeed, also opposing, added that some years previously the city had turned down a similar offer from the American Legion basically because of the restrictions.

Mayor Ralph Doetsch and Councilman Dean Chamberlin favored accepting the offer from the woman's club.

It's a holiday

In the past when holidays have fallen on Monday, the staff of the Campbell Press ruefully, wistfully and somewhat grudgingly has ignored the calendar and continued on the grindstone as if nothing had happened.

Next Monday, July 5, however, things will be different. The Press will be closed.

The cooperation of our news sources and advertisers will be needed to the fullest. Deadlines are moved up to Thursday and Friday for next week's edition.

And we are trying not to think about what is going to happen on Tuesday.

It could spoil the whole holiday idea.

And a happy and safe Fourth to you, too.

Campbell school board organizes for year this Thursday

Trustees of the Campbell Union (elementary) School District this Thursday, July 1, will reorganize for the new year by naming a president, vice-president and clerk, and look forward to a tax election before the end of the fiscal year.

The board meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the administration building.

Dr. Richard MacQuiddy, a psychologist, who was re-elected on April 20 has been president for the past year. Jim Gilliland, who was defeated for reelection, was vice-president while Mrs. Eleanor Graham-Armstrong has been clerk.

Dr. Robert L. King, a veterinarian, is the new member of the board and Ralph Steinberg, an attorney, completes the roster.

At the last meeting of the board, Jim D'Avis, acting superintendent of the school district since October when Neal Royer, superintendent since 1964, was demoted, was given a four-year contract as assistant superintendent.

Royer has more than a year to go on his second four-year contract as superintendent of the district.

D'Avis is completing six years in the position of assistant superintendent, and prior to this year, was on a year-to-year contractual basis.

In giving D'Avis a four-year contract as assistant, the board also stipulated that, effective on July 1, and as long as he remains acting superintendent, he will receive pay on the superintendent level.

Former warehouse must comply with city regulations

Concerned over possible fire hazards that exist in the "Wrinkled Prune Annex" in the center of town, the City Council on Monday night "got tough".

By unanimous vote, the City Council directed Stanley Becker, owner of the converted Sunsweet warehouse which now houses the "Bodega" restaurant and a number of other businesses, to comply with the city regulations or close down his operation.

Becker, in a personal appeal to the Council, claimed that he was being "harassed" by the fire department and other city departments. He indicated that he would seek legal means to defy the city's action.

Fire Marshal Gene Borden agreed that he had been pressing Becker to meet the city requirements with respect to fire hazards, but Becker had continued to ignore his warnings.

Borden said that no sprinkler system had been installed as ordered and other infractions had taken place. He noted that Becker had added two more businesses in the converted warehouse without taking any precautionary measures.

Wally Byron, city building official, noted that no building permits had been issued for the additions that had been made.

WHAT'S IT WORTH? SHOULD MEXICO GET IT?

Council ponders fate of old fire engine

Before the city gives anything away, the councilmen want to know just what they are giving in the way of dollars and cents.

That in essence was the City Council's reaction on Monday night to the proposal of Fire Chief George Maxwell that the City of Campbell donate a 1937 pumper fire engine, long unused by this city, to Cuidad de Madero in Tampico, Mexico.

Madero, since 1964, has been an unofficial sister-city of the Campbell Fire Department and has been the recipient of considerable fire fighting equipment from Campbell and many other cities.

Pictured above is the 1937 engine with this city's newest fire fighting unit, a 1970 pumper. Campbell has three other wagons (plus the antique Model T job).

Maxwell pointed out that the 1937 rig is unusable by Campbell now and is taking up storage space. He added that there is no market for its resale and he had no idea what its value would be.

The Council directed the fire chief to get the pumper appraised before any action would be taken.

STANDS BURST FORTH FOR FOURTH

Fireworks sales in town cause big boom

Although there will be Fourth of July celebrations on an organized basis in Campbell, chances are that there still will be a bang-up time in the community via the fireworks route.

The Fire Department, on record opposed to the sale or use of fireworks within the city limits has not been successful in legislating against their sale or use.

So, somewhat reluctantly, the department has issued 12 permits within the city limits for the sale of the traditional Fourth of July noisemakers. No resident will have to travel very far to find a stand.

During the 10-day period, the fire officials will keep their collective fingers crossed, hoping that grass fires will be held to a minimum and no injuries will occur. They are not very optimistic on either count based on the experience of previous years.

Many community service organizations, as well as church groups, have long used the sale of fireworks as their prime means of raising money for their civic projects. This year is no exception.

Stands will be operated for the benefit of the Kiwanis Club, the JayCees, Optimists, Moose Lodge, Rainbow Girls, DeMolay, Moreland Little League, and Quito Little League, St. Lucy's and San Tomas Explorer Scouts. A couple of retail stores also have been issued special permits.

The stands are located on almost all the main thoroughfares and the Fire Department emphasizes that there must be 100-feet ground clearance at each location.

San Jose bans fireworks, but the county does not.

So, in addition to the 12 permits for sales within the city limits, a number of stands will also be located outside the city in county territory and subject to county controls. For example, Campbell Kiwanians will run two stands, one at Bascom and the other on Campbell Ave. at Victor, which is outside the city.

Fire Chief George Maxwell and Fire Marshal Gene Borden appealed to residents to use care in the use of fireworks.

Both indicated they would be glad when the celebration period is past.

Planners to hold public hearing on nine-story complex on July 6

Should a nine-story commercial-office-apartment complex be located at San Tomas Expressway and Llewellyn Ave? That's the question that the Planning Commission next Tuesday, July 6, at a public hearing, will try to answer.

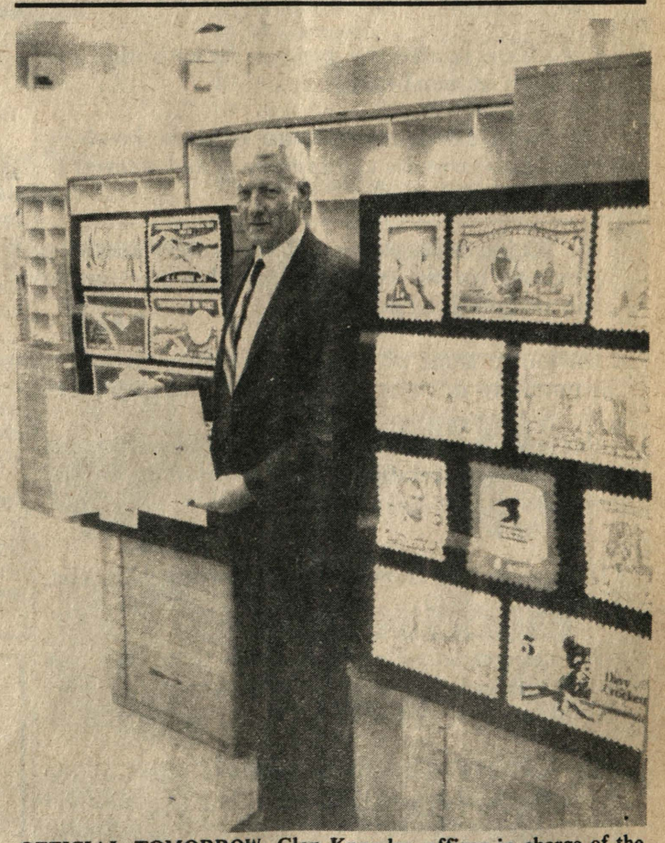
Central Development Co. through G. R. Prior, as president, has submitted plans for the nine-story structure, plus the adjacent three-level parking compound.

Action on the matter was continued from the June 7 meeting to allow the city's planning staff to explore the traffic circulation pattern and other factors of the project.

The staff has indicated that an unfavorable report will be submitted based on the intensity of use for the area and the overall appearance of the development.

Up for approval next Monday also will be the plans for a 36-unit apartment complex for Philip Sondeno located at Union Ave. and Michael Dr.

A zone-change request has also been submitted by H. Weisel for property located at 1805 S. Bascom. Weisel is asking that the zoning be changed from C-2-S (commercial) to P-D (planned development) in order that he can construct a 155-unit apartment complex on the property. The project is located just north of the Aloha apartments and extends to the creek.



OFFICIAL TOMORROW---Glen Knowles, officer in charge of the Campbell Post Office, displays the new stamp which the new United States Postal Service will have available tomorrow, July 1, the official change over date.

The local office at 90 E. Latimer Ave. will hold a flag-raising ceremony at 8 a.m. Color guard will be provided by West Valley American Legion Post and a group of local high school students will provide band music. From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., visitors to the post office may participate in guided tours of the building and will be given a souvenir envelope imprinted with the old and new insignia of the Postal Service. Photographs of modern Postal Service Jobs and functions and posters showing stamps, old and new, will be displayed.

Jaycees goals

The Campbell Press has long considered the Campbell JayCees, a service club made up of young men of the community, one of the most important civic organizations in the area.

In no way are we belittling the value of the Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Club to the community. Both these groups very definitely have major roles to play and both are well established and have long proved their worth.

But the JayCees offer something else.

They offer enthusiasm and youthful vigor. They are not deterred by tradition or precedent. They come out of their corner 'raring to go and they often accomplish their objectives through sheer exuberance rather than organization.

We have always supported the JayCees and their various projects, because we appreciate the enthusiasm and the drive that their membership manifests, although, at times, they may appear to be a little disorganized in their campaigns.

But their enthusiasm often more than offsets their disorganization.

Recently the Campbell JayCees, under their new president, Dave Valkenaar, adopted their goals for 1971-72. We heartily commend the organization for outlining their objectives so specifically.

We think the goals are realistic but, at the same time, provide a challenge for this outfit of young men who really mean to "do something."

In setting up the goals for Campbell, the JayCees are following the precept of their constitution which states:

"The purpose of this organization shall be civic service through organized efforts of the young men of the community, to promote the welfare of the community and its citizens through active, constructive projects.

"It shall be the further purpose of this organization to provide the young men constituting its membership, training in leadership and civic consciousness to better their usefulness as citizens. This organization shall be non-partisan inregard to politics, but many support political issues affecting the community welfare."

In keeping with this precept, the Campbell JayCees have adopted the following goals for the next year.

1. To earn the "Blue Chip" award for the fourth consecutive year.

2. To average two projects per month with emphasis on community involvement.

3. To obtain at least 30 new members by March 1.

4. To provide funding for extended activities and to seek corporate sponsors for as many projects as possible.

5. To recognize outstanding JayCees and JayCettes and to promote harmony and cooperate between the JayCees and the JayCettes.

6. To be informed of, and involved in community, state and national issues.

7. To complete records and recognition forms of every project and activity.

8. To be one of the outstanding units in the state.

9. To have an effective program for activation and retention of membership.

10. To have a variety of social activities, involving individuals, couples and families to add interest to the Campbell JayCees.

11. To have interesting, informative and inspiring programs for the general membership meetings to encourage regular attendance.

Obviously some of these goals, or objectives, pertain purely to the internal operation of the club itself.

But many are part and parcel of the community and we urge your cooperation and support of this youthful power group.

Obviously the JayCees need operating capital. (What else is new?)

Their two outstanding fund-raising events each year are the sale of fireworks and the sponsorship of a carnival.

The JayCees will have a fireworks stand at the Rolling Hills Shopping Center at Hacienda and San Tomas Aquino Road and the annual carnival will take place July 8-11 on Hamilton Ave. just west of the San Tomas Expressway.

We sincerely believe the JayCees are deserving of the support of the community as a whole because of their efforts in sponsoring community activities.

We commend the organization for establishing definite goals to be achieved during the next year. We sincerely hope that their objectives will be accomplished.

come slightly frustrating, because of the fluctuation in the consumption of their product.

Trying to project the ups and downs for a year, when so much is dependent on weather conditions, is a difficult task.

We know in some areas, it has not been unusual to have a water rationing program initiated from time to time, to cut down on the consumption.

But what if the consumption falls below the normal use like it did in May?

Unlike other businesses, no efforts are made to stimulate sales.

We have never heard of a "use-more-water" program, or the offer of a summer clearance special like "buy one bucketful and get your second free".

And we are sure we never will.

BACK IN THE '50's AND early '60's when this community had not quite yet gotten off the ground, there was one man who put his entire heart and soul into making Campbell a better place in which to live and work.

That man was Sam Cava.

Sam was a highly successful businessman, having been involved in the fruit canning and packing business for years in the Valley.

He was actually "taking it easy" when he became interested in Campbell through one of the markets in town.

But from 1956 into the early '60's, Campbell's problems practically became Sam's only concern.

And, man, how he worked at it.

He had been professionally a musician and had played in Sousa's band in the Army.

He always carried his musician's union card and loved to pick up his horn and play in the union's marching band in the Old Settlers Day parade.

-0-

CAVA USED TO ARrange for the parade each year and loved to schedule as many bands as possible.

He would work tirelessly making all the arrangements for the big parade puffing on his big cigar.

His fatigue would only show when the parade finally would get under way.

Then he would droop a little.

But only briefly. He recovered fast.

He would put down his cigar, pick up his horn, and then join his buddies in the musician's union band.

Sam's friends were legend. They came from all walks of life.

It was always refreshing, and often surprising, when one would hear, "Sure, I know Sam Cava well".

It could be heard from a banker in San Francisco.

Or from a musician in a Las Vegas night spot.

We know.

We heard it in both spots.

-0-

WHAT BROUGHT ABOUT all this reminiscing on "Sam, the Man of Campbell", was that Christine, Sam's wonderful and lovely wife, recently brought Sam by the office for one of their periodical brief visits.

Sam suffered a severe stroke about eight years ago, and has been paralyzed on his right side since that time. He also lost his power of speech at the time of his stroke.

But he has not lost his love for Campbell, or his interest in this community. He continues to be an avid reader, and keeps abreast of current events.

And he loves to visit his beloved community and see the changes that have taken place during the past decade. And there have been many.

We imagine he is recalling, as his eyes brighten up, those early days when his Italian temper would flare when some of his big-shot friends from the outside would describe Campbell as that "dirty little cannery town". They did not have the vision of Sam.

Campbell has come a long way and Sam realizes it. His pride glows, even if he can't tell you about it.

And, of course, one of our favorite people has always been Christine Cava, who uncomplainingly, despite the fact that she, too, has had health problems, cheerfully and devotedly takes care of her Sam.

And our Sam, too.

Or did you already guess that?

Council favors Lockheed loan

Members of the City Council, apparently impressed by the plea of Campbell residents employed by Lockheed, on Monday night adopted a resolution favoring the controversial $250 million loan by the government to the giant firm, faced with astronomical fiscal problems.

The resolution passed by a 4-1 vote (Councilman Ed Rogers dissenting) will be forwarded to the U.S. Senate Banking Committee where the issue now rests.

Bruce Sweetland, of 119 Bismarck Dr., was spokesman for the group of Lockheed employees who were at the meeting to urge favorable Council action. A letter, signed by 12 residents of the city, all employed by Lockheed, stressing the importance of the firm to the economy of the area, was also submitted to the Council.

Prior to the Council swinging into its agenda for the evening, Dr. Corwin Olds, pastor emeritus of the Campbell Congregational Church, presented an impressive review of the church's activities throughout history and particularly the part it has played in Campbell.

The Rev. Olds was pastor of the Congregational Church in 1956 when the building was purchased by the city for its city hall.

The main portion of the structure was built before the turn of the century, and was used as a church for 60 years.

Monday's meeting is expected to be the last the City Council will hold in the old city hall, the converted church. Moving day into the building has been set for July 9. The Council will not meet again until July 12. The old city hall is scheduled to be demolished shortly after the move takes place.

In another action on Monday, the City Council approved a tentative budget of $3,725,880, with the anticipated surplus in all funds the budget will top $4.2 million.

The final budget, however, will not be approved until mid-August when the assessment figures are in and the surplus funds have been firmed.

Winding road up Mount Hamilton offers "bonus" for making trip

Mount Hamilton, the highest mountain overlooking San Francisco Bay, rises above the Santa Clara Valley some 20 miles east of San Jose. The road up to the top has a hundred hairpin turns, says the California State Automobile some of the world's largest telescopes and there are tours offered. And if that's not enough, the view from Mt. Hamilton, at an elevation of 4,200 feet, is a sweeping panorama of the Santa Clara Valley and the entire San Francisco Bay.

If the weather is clear, you can see San Francisco and Mount Tamalpais to the north and the entire range of coastal mountains as far south as Gilroy.

The road that climbs up to Mt. Hamilton was originally built by Chinese laborers in 1878 and was laid out so horse-drawn stages could negotiate it. Consequently there is no grade more than 12 per cent, but there are many switchbacks and cautious driving is in order.

The Observatory was built in 1888 and was first equipped with a 36-inch telescope which is nearly 60 feet in length. In 1959 a 120-inch telescope was installed. It is the world's largest and sits inside a rotating dome that is 96 feet in diameter and almost 100 feet high. The whole apparatus weighs 150 tons and the mirror and the 50-foot long tube in which it is placed alone weighs 40 tons.

The Observatory was built by James Lick, San Francisco realtor, who donated $700,000 for its construction. He directed that it be turned over to the University of California for the use of astronomy students. The Observatory is used to study the distribution of the galaxies, dying stars in their last stages of existence and swirling interstellar clouds from which new stars may be born.

Lick is buried beneath the huge telescope in the main building.

The Lick Observatory is open daily from 1-5 p.m. and guided tours are offered on Saturdays and Sundays. There are no restaurants or service stations on the mountain.

Although the Observatory is only 20 miles from San Jose, visitors should allow one hour for the drive because of the winding road.

Lillroth, of 755 Loyalton Dr., Campbell, recently completed the first phase of training under the modern volunteer army field experiment at Ft. Ord, Calif. meeting, adopted the tentative $10.8 million budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year. The final budget will not be adopted until August.

Board members are also expected to discuss various critical phases of the budget at this Thursday's meeting.

Looming as almost a certainty is the necessity of scheduling a tax override election during the next fiscal year.

In a report to the board, D'Avis points out that if no election is held to maintain or increase the present $2.55 rate, on July 1, 1972, the tax rate will revert to $1.80 per $100 assessed valuation.

D'Avis is recommending that a committee be appointed by the board to develop a tax election calendar, campaign organization and the proposed rate.

The acting superintendent suggests that the committee should be composed of representatives from the board, administration, employee groups and citizens, and should report by September.

At the last meeting the board also named Steve Braley as vice-principal for Forest Hill and Ed McCauley as vice-principal at Campbell Elementary. Both are now teachers in the district.

The trustees are also scheduled to meet in an executive session on Thursday. Matters taken up in the executive session may also be presented at the regular meeting of the board.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?---Fire Chief George Maxwell stands by the 1937 pumper which has not been used by the city for almost 10 years. Chief Maxwell has suggested that the fire engine be donated to Madero, Tampico, Mexico, which is in need of fire equipment of all kinds. However, the Council on Monday directed Maxwell to find out how much the 34-year old pumper is worth.

The Councilmen indicated that, if they were giving anything away, they would like to know how much it was worth. Maxwell submitted that there was no market value for the rig, but he would try to get it appraised. Some of the councilmen also thought that there might be a better place than a town in Mexico for the pumper. Action on Maxwell's suggestion was continued for two weeks.

Letters to the Editor

COMMENDS GILLILAND

Dear George:

On Thursday, July 1, Jim Gilliland's term of office as a CUSD Board of Trustees member expires. Many in this community admire Jim as a fine gentleman and father whose standards and principles serve as an example to all.

His stability, experience, knowledge, and forthrightness have served this community well. Despite the fact that Jim will no longer be a member of the board of trustees, his continued leadership is necessary. Too many today are only interested in making stances and taking positions on what they feel will make them instantly popular. We need leaders who stand for what they feel is right, despite political consequences.

Jim Gilliland is able to disagree without being disagreeable, a commodity so lacking today. Many times, I'm sure, Jim had disappointments but he has still kept his strong sense of values and tolerance for others' rights to a conflicting viewpoint.

As parents, we can certainly admire Jim and his wife, Eileen, for the good job they have done with their own two children, Mary Kaye and Michael. I will continue to look to Jim Gilliland and responsible men like him for leadership in the difficult times that are ahead.

Sincerely,
Gordon Abbott

DO SOMETHING

Dear Mr. Vierhus,

You have always said that you want to do something for the community. Now is the time to do it.

The Campbell JayCees have a list of nearly one hundred jobs that must be done by people like you. Jobs like teaching, reading, being a friend, recreation counseling, typing, backpacking with youth, helping senior citizens. Take a minute and tell them what you can do.

Enrollment cards are located throughout the community in banks, restaurants, pharmacys....over fifty locations in all. Fill out a card and put it in a box or mail it to P. O. Box 128, Campbell 95008. DO SOMETHING!

Thank you,
Rich Smith (Publicity Chairman) DO SOMETHING! Project Campbell JayCees.

JUST ONE JOB

Dear Editor,

In my recent travels, I ran across a peculiar little man. He was wearing a button which says, "One of the Silent Majority," but he's not too silent. He worries a lot -- to his neighbor, his brother-in-law, his co-workers -- about everything and anything, but he never DOES anything EXCEPT worry.

Worry about such things as today's youth and substantial rises in unemployment. And he has a right to worry, because both of these problems have become increasingly apparent, but he also has an obligation to DO something about it, and he CAN, right here in Campbell.

One hundred high school students have placed applications with the Campbell Youth Employment Service and to date, only twenty have been given jobs; most of those being babysitting or gardening. That means that eighty kids are waiting for jobs -- spending their summer in idle frustration.

Think about it. He could solve two problems with one call, if he were to hire just one youth in either his business or his home for the summer. He could save himself a lot of work AND a lot of worry.

How about yourself?

Jean Moore
Campbell Youth Employment Service Director.

Drownings in reservoirs cause county to enforce "no swimming"

The group of teenagers found the reservoir a perfect place to hold an outdoor party.

After looking around for awhile they found a secluded spot where they could drink beer without attracting the attention of a park ranger.

It was a humid, sunny afternoon and the cool, placid reservoir waters looked inviting.

Disregarding the "no swimming" sign posted nearby, and warnings from several others in the group, one boy challenged a friend to a swim across the reservoir.

Both dived into the water simultaneously.

They had not quite reached the mid-point of the reservoir when one of the boys began to feel muscle spasms in his stomach.

His friend turned back and tried to pull the stricken boy back to shore, but the effort quickly tired him, and he was forced to release his helpless buddy.

He called to his friends on shore for help, and was barely able to stay afloat himself until they reached him.

The stricken boy had already slipped below the surface as members of the group ran for help.

It took park rangers and scuba divers from the Sheriff's Department several hours to locate the boy's body.

The young boy's death had occurred needlessly. It was one of eight such accidental drowning deaths in Santa Clara County reservoirs last year that could have been averted.

In each case numerous "no swimming" signs were posted conspicuously along the reservoir's edges.

For the past three years the county has averaged eight such drowning deaths.

In an effort to curb such incidents this year, Assistant Parks and Recreation Director Tom Crandall, has announced that park rangers will soon begin issuing citations to persons found swimming in unauthorized areas.

The citations have resulted from an ordinance passed by the Board of Supervisors last October, making it a misdemeanor for anyone to swim in any of the seven county reservoirs specifically marked off-limits to the general public.

Crandall stressed that the enforcement measure is intended primarily to "protect the general public from themselves and to save lives."

"Each death is a tragedy that not only effects the victim's family, but our people as well," said Crandall.

Crandall said the majority of drowning victims fall primarily into one of two categories; small children who have fallen off inner tubes and rafts and young male adults who overestimate their swimming prowess.

Crandall also cautioned parents against letting their children wade in shallow waters, because of the deep holes that frequently lie just offshore.

The seven reservoirs where swimming is specifically prohibited to the general public are: Vasona Lake Park, Guadalupe, Almaden, Chesbro, Uvas, Lexington, and Anderson Reservoirs.

A number of other recreation areas such as Mt. Madonna Park, Santa Teresa Park and Ed Levin Park also prohibit swimming.

Citations will be issued at each reservoir only when persons found swimming in a "no-swimming" area refuse to follow a "reasonable request" to leave the water, explained Crandall.

Swimming, however, under the supervision of lifeguards will be permitted beginning on weekends in mid-May at designated areas of Stevens Creek, Coyote, and Calero Reservoirs. Beginning on the second weekend of June swimming will be on a daily basis at all three locations, and will continue as long as water conditions allow.

Other activities such as power boating and water skiing are allowed at Lexington Calero, Anderson and Coyote Reservoirs. Boats without motors are allowed at all ten reservoirs under the County's jurisdiction.

Sports enthusiasts wishing to ski and use their boats must comply with safety regulations established by the Parks and Recreation Department. Life jackets are mandatory items with each sport.

Fishing is not permitted at Almaden, Calero and Guadalupe Reservoirs where recent tests have shown excessive levels of mercury in some fish.

Alamitos Creek is also off-limits to fishermen.

Anyone desiring additional information on county recreation facilities can call the county Parks and Recreation Department, 356-7151.

Bringing up fido

Several times recently I have received the impression that readers of this column feel I am only writing about purebred dogs.

Quite the contrary!

"Fido" is no purebred.

He's a happy family pet.

His pedigree is unknown, but he knows who his family is.

His family provides him with fresh water, a balanced diet, a warm bed and a shady yard.

His family never goes away and leaves him, for even a day, without having a neighbor check on him.

His family doesn't take him to a fancy grooming shop, but he gets a good brushing every Saturday morning and about every six months, he spends some time in the family bathtub getting a good scrubbing.

He does get his nails cut periodically and he makes a yearly trip to the veterinarian for booster shots.

There are no foxtails in Fido's yard and his owner makes sure that those evening walks (on leash) don't include a short cut through a weed-filled empty lot.

Fido has never learned to disturb garbage cans, probably because the lid is always on tight, the can's in the side yard where Fido never goes, and besides, who wants garbage when they can get kibble and meat?

Fido has a ball and an imitation bone and an old sock which are "his" toys. Once he tried to acquire a towel from the kitchen, but was promptly informed that wasn't allowed.

Fido also has his own private yard, so when his family is entertaining on the patio, or when there are tiny children around, he can relax and not worry about forgetting his manners or having his tail pulled.

Fido rather likes leading a dog's life!

Girl Scouts

by Nan Warren

How do you like your eggs in the morning – poached in a paper cup, in an orange peel, or over-easy on a rock?

If this sounds a little "far-out" – it is! In reality, eggs can be cooked in this manner and junior-aged girls attending one of the many summer opportunities offered by the Santa Clara County Girl Scout Council are having a wild time trying these methods of camp cookery.

This particular Day Camp is unique in that primitive outdoor cooking is accented by a rather primitive location. The camp site is Machado School near Morgan Hill and is surrounded by tree-covered hills, orchards and rolling farmlands.

The camp directors, Mrs. N. J. Argall, and Mrs. Larry Derrington, have helped the Unit Leaders (troop leaders and volunteer moms) to teach these young Scouts the different and unusual methods and skills of primitive cooking. They have used such methods as stick cookery, bean hole and "no pot" cookery. They finished the week with a luau consisting of corn, potatoes and ham baked underground on hot rocks. The girls have also learned to build their own fire pits, fashion primitive utencils from wood, cans, etc., and lash tables.

Of the 50 girls who participated in this camp, many are from Campbell, including Mrs. Leland Lopes, Mrs. Melvern Swenson and Mrs. Bernard Weider, and many of the junior Scouts of Troop 420, Capri School. Mrs. Derrington, co-director of the camp, is a former leader of Troop 420.

FROM THE CALIFORNIA HIGHWAY PATROL

Half the fatal accidents on California's highways on last July 4 weekend involved either drunk driving or excessive speed, or both.

Captain A. J. Zink of the California Highway Patrol urges drinkers to stay out of the driver's seat over this holiday weekend.

The CHP official said that last year most July 4 weekend accidents occurred in daylight, most drivers were in the 16 to 20 age group, and all but one of the drivers in fatal crashes were males.

"These accidents didn't happen only to families taking long weekend trips, either," he added. "In fact, most of them occurred fairly close to the drivers' homes, and involved people who were engaged in normal weekend activities."

Artist predicts Campbell may become a Carmel

"Campbell may become an artists colony.

"Artists go where the rent's cheap.

"Then tourists start coming and then restaurants spring up. Pretty soon, though, the rents go up and the artists move out.

"That's happened to Carmel and partially to Old Town.

"Now the artists are moving to Campbell."

Some of the thoughts expressed by Don Heitkotter, main drag painter, may be right.

Heitkotter has established a studio across from West Valley College where he both works and displays his paintings.

Several doors down is another artist and he says several more are planning to move into the area.

Heitkotter is enjoying a moderate amount of success as a professional artist and is anxious to let the public know just what being a professional artist entails.

He hasn't always been an artist.

Born in Fresno, he spent most of his younger years in the Bay area, including a stint at San Jose High School, when he decided he was bored with education and joined the paratroopers at 16.

Subsequent temporary careers included a professional boxing fling, various kinds of construction work and sales.

"But I always knew I wanted to be an artist."

Eventually he got into a sign painting business and worked on advertising billboards.

(He informed us that all billboards aren't printed as we thought, but many are handpainted, using patterns.)

In 1968 he joined Studio 88 which he shared with Steve Sutton, Duane Armstrong and Norman Thomas, Pulitzer prize winner.

Three of his paintings were chosen to hang in President Nixon's summer white house at San Clemente.

The Gilbert Gallery in San Francisco handles much of his work, as do several other galleries.

A fortunate break came last year when he was asked to supply art work for the soon-to-be released motion picture, "Play Misty For Me", starring Clint Eastwood.

Heitkotter supplied paintings for an artist's studio scene, including a painting of the star which was slated to be slashed to ribbons in the picture. He made three identical portraits, as the scene was filmed several times.

"I was worried that they'd destroy all three paintings with so many retakes."

Apparently, one was saved, as it hangs in Heitkotter's studio gallery, along with a slashed picture and a photograph of the artist and Clint Eastwood.

Primarily, Heitkotter's work runs to open space scenes, composed, he says, out of his head, as he works.

"I'm not a production artist. What has kept me going are the collectors who feel that it is an asset to have one of my paintings."

He's extraordinarily sure of his own talent, his particular technique and his themes.

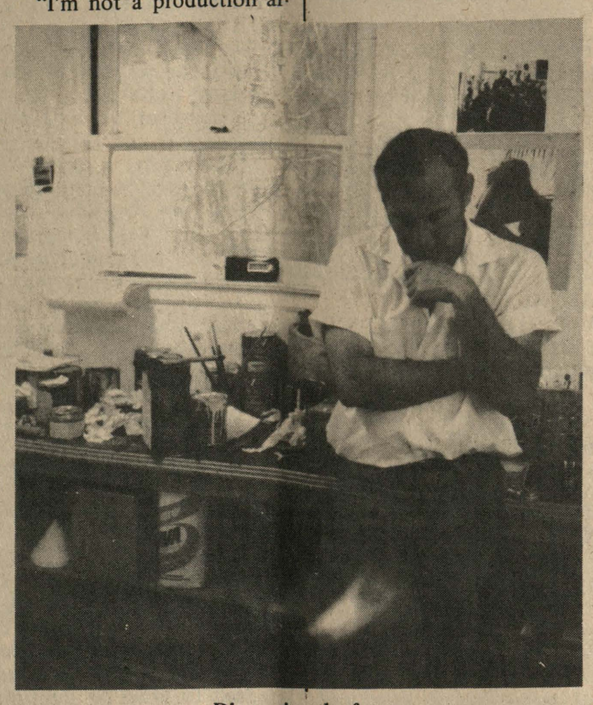
"You could call me an ecology painter -- I'm aware of the environment."

Heitkotter's dutch-doored studio is open daily except Sunday and he's perfectly agreeable to visitors.

And if his predictions are correct.....

Campbell may become an artistic center.

Artist and his work.



Discussing the future.

Wells Fargo Bank holds vacation celebration

"Happy Vacation Daze" is the theme of a three day celebration kicking off the vacation season at Wells Fargo Bank on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 30, July 1 and 2.

Most of the bank employees will don shirts which are offered for sale by the bank depicting "former employees or affiliates" of the early Wells Fargo operation.

Emperor Norton, Buffalo Bill, Mark Twain, Wyatt Earp, Black Bart and Phineas Banning have all had their likeness' printed on the white tee shirts.

Alleen Cowdery, assistant manager, operations, is chairman of the celebration. Bank employees are going to drape the walls with vacation posters and set-up a vacation oriented display in the bank lobby, to include a "camp-out" scene.

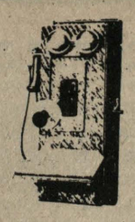
ARMBRUSTER here



THE ARITHMETICS

by Frank Armbruster
6th grade, Campbell School
(Age 42)

After all those years, I think I'm beginning to understand what it was they were trying to teach me about arithmetic in grammar school. As the fellow once said, "I've been studying on it."

What puzzles me still is why they didn't just come right out and tell me what it was they were trying to get me to learn.

At the first, and in the beginning, they wanted me to learn the names of the numbers. If somebody said "What's this number?", I was supposed to say "TWO" or "FIVE" or whatever the number was. They pointed to a numeral and I said its name.

No, that's not it.....

Even before that, I was supposed to be able to recite a sequence of words. I was supposed to be able to say "ONE – TWO – THREE – FOUR", etc., up to about "TEN", or so. And if somebody said, "What comes after THREE?", I was supposed to say "FOUR", and like that.

In other words, they wanted me to recite the one-two-three's like I did the A-B-C's.

No, that's not it, either.....

When somebody said, "How old are you?", I was supposed to say "four", or when somebody asked "How many?", I was expected to answer with the correct number.

And the range of numbers went up to, "How high can you count?" I was expected to be able to count a group of objects. If somebody said "Which is more?", I was supposed to point to the larger group.

Yeah, that's it---all of those things together were the first. Like a sort of interlocking system of ideas that could be called: "Correct use of the counting numbers."

Right--I BELIEVE THATS IT. And if we were to try to make an outline of it, it would look like this:

A. Correct use of the counting Numbers:
1. Ability to name numerals.
2. Ability to name numerals in partial sequence up to TEN.
3. Ability to answer questions in the form "How many?"
4. Ability to answer question, "How high can you count?"
5. Ability to identify "MORE", "LESS", and "SAME".

Hey---I think I've got it! The first steps on the road to arithmetic are those that demonstrate THE CORRECT USE OF THE COUNTING NUMBERS. (And that phrase should be solemnly intoned as though it were coming from multiple loudspeakers like they have in airports and sports arenas.)

If arithmetic were a language, then what we just said would be sort of like building a vocabulary of nouns as the first step toward the learning of that language. Seems reasonable to me. Does it to you?

And one thing more ought to be said here. – We're talking about the Hindu-Arabic counting and numeration sequence. We're NOT talking about Roman Numerals and we're NOT talking about base eight or base six or anything like that. We're talking about the ordinary, everyday, Yankee Doodle, down-home counting system where "ten" comes after "nine" and "seven" comes after "six".

Not that I'm being old fashioned or reactionary about number bases other than ten. Some of my best friends are base two and base eight numbers! I'm just of the opinion that at this point in the sequence, we'd better get our standard native language skill up a ways before we commence learning a second or third language.

What I'm trying to do is set up a sequence of learning experiences with the smoothest possible transitions from one level of competence to the next. And it's all based on my personal experiences and prejudices, so use it as it suits you, but change it if it doesn't.

The question is probably in your mind about now, "Okay, but what is the proper age at which these things should be learned?"

It's my personal opinion that children should have acquired "Correct Use of the Counting Numbers" before they are allowed to enter the first grade.

I DO HONESTLY BELIEVE that children CAN and SHOULD be taught these skills at home --- or KINDERGARTEN at the latest.

I have some thoughts on how this can be accomplished in the home, nursery school and kindergarten, but these will be the subject of another column.

DARTING AROUND

with Tom Carroll

The second half of Sunday afternoon at the Pub or the great dart shoot at the Abbey Tavern was the NCDA "A" Division Championship, The Falstaff Cup Match. Representing the West Bay Division was Primrose Lanes I "Banshees" from Burlingame and the El Camino League. From the other side of the Bay, came the Courtyard II "Prosecutors" from their lair in Hayward.

As before, the team game was played first. Tom Patton got the Banshees away with a 93, but Tony Chaverria countered with a 68. The Banshees only had one player hit a score in the 80's while the Prosecutors hit three plus Don Halter hit a ton (100). At the end of 54 darts Mike Lanin left the Prosecutors with 72 on the board. Bob Beshears went bust trying to go out, but Don Halter hit the 72 out, 1001 in 60 darts.

BANSHEES EARLY LEAD

The Banshees' Tom Patton and Ron Rutherford took the first two singles games from Tony Chaverria and Mike Lanin to slide ahead by one game. The Prosecutors won the next three singles. Bob Beshears, Gary Barker and Don Halter defeated Pat Murphy, Marty Gibson and Bob Allingham in spite of Pat's hitting a ton at the end of the first half the Prosecutors were in the lead 4–2.

The Prosecutors now had the momentum. They won the team game and Tony and Mike retaliated for their first half defeats giving the Prosecutors the necessary seven games and the title.

PRIMROSE TOURNAMENT

Last Wednesday night the Primrose Lanes held a singles tournament that had a good representation of South Bay and Peninsula dart shooters. Some nice high scores were shot and I am sure I did not catch all of them. Dick Britz had a beautiful 122 away. Herb Waschkowski hit a 116, Phil Albers popped a 121 and Charlie Farr shot a 136.

The game for first place was between Tom Patton and Phil Albers. Phil won the tournament with a 14 dart game, Dave Pena took third place with Charlie Farr pulling the fourth place honors.

ALL-STAR MATCH

The NCDA-SCDA All-Star match will be played Saturday night at the House of Parties in Daly City. The Saturday evening time was picked because the Southern California Darters won't fly-in until that afternoon.

The team is chosen from the singles and doubles championship matches held during the regular season of play. The Northern California team will be: Ben and Jim Macredes, Scarlett La Rue's, Los Gatos; Des Maples and Roy Haslam, Banbury Clock, San Jose; Rich and Gary Curtaz, Sam's Vineyard, San Francisco; Don Gepson, English Pub, Oakland; Jim Price, Bel Air Club, Concord; Ray Rahmer, Gay 90's, Pleasant Hill and Pat O'Donnell, Abbey Tavern, San Francisco.

Sorn Sakbodin of the Lord Nelson in San Francisco and Phil Albers of the Dutch Goose in Menlo Park will be the alternates. As you can see the make-up of the team is well spread around the Bay Area.

SIXTY YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Plumb, 42 N. Carlyn, were surprised on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary with a patio party dinner given in their honor by their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bradford, 31 N. Carlyn. Fourteen guests greeted the Plumbs, including old friends from Lake Tahoe and southern California.

Carol Don, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Plumb, resides in Mesa, Arizona. She and the Plumb's grandchildren, Richard and Margaret, were unable to attend.

West Valley graduate is only 77 years young

The oldest student ever to attend West Valley College received her diploma in recent graduation exercises.

At age 77, Gertrude Monahan received an A.A. degree as a language major!

The active lady says education has always been important to her.

She was forced to be a high school dropout in 1910 to help support her family, but she returned to school in 1958 taking a few classes at a time. Then, in 1964 she attended night school in earnest for two years and earned her high school diploma in 1966.

A mainstay of Miss Monahan's has been her lifelong determination.

She became a nurse after saving enough money to begin a nurse's training program.

She explains that when she became a nurse it was through practical experience—"on the job training"—and with no formal college education or courses in chemistry, anatomy or physiology she passed the Washington State Board of Examination and became a registered nurse in 1916.

She is still a registered nurse in California and is on the "retired" list of registered nurses in Washington.

In 1917 she went to France to care for wounded soldiers during the First World War and remained there for some time after learning to speak the French language.

Returning to the United States, she took a public health course and learned to care for patients with communicable diseases. She then served as a nurse in veterans hospitals in Washington, Arizona, New Mexico and California, adding some Spanish to her growing area of knowledge.

After receiving her high school diploma at the age of 72 she decided further schooling was necessary for her. So in 1968 she entered West Valley College.

Of her stay at West Valley she can only say "it's been wonderful." She has nothing but praise for the instructors at the college, noting their thoroughness in teaching.

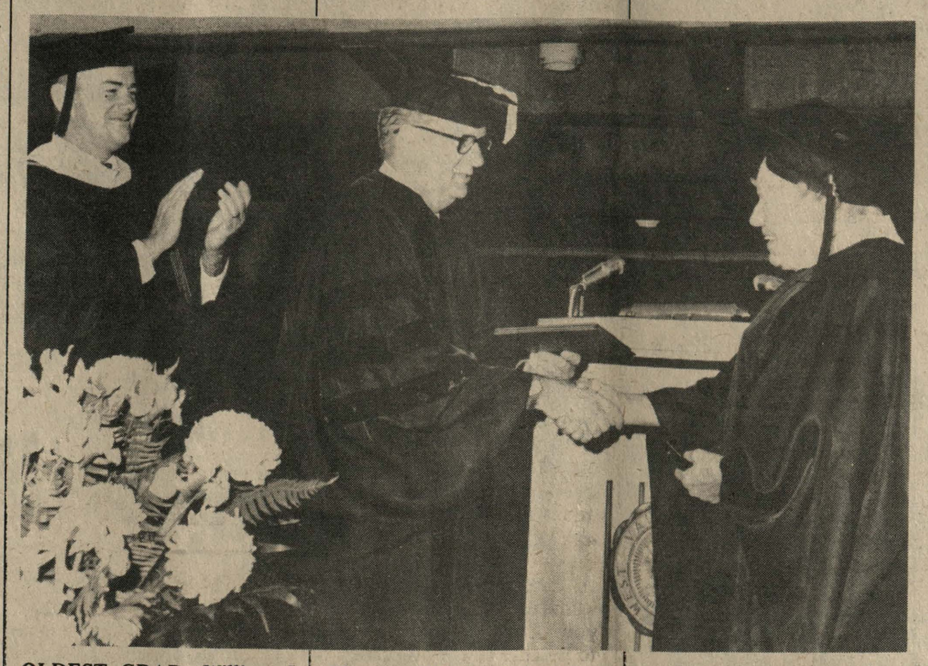
The students considered her an "oddity" by her own description when she first came to the college, but soon she found herself surrounded by students during breaks between classes. They talked about any and all things, but education was one of the foremost topics.

High school is "only the beginning" according to Miss Monahan, and college is the key if students want to get somewhere in this competitive world.

Miss Monahan is going to continue her college education.

But first she is going to take a year off to fix up one room of her mobile home so that she can write articles for foreign language magazines.

After that it will be on to a state college for further schooling, for as she says "there's so much to learn about this world of ours."



OLDEST GRAD---William J. Homan, chairman of the governing board of West Valley College, congratulates Miss Gertrude M. Monahan, 165 Blossom Hill Road, San Jose, on her graduation from West Valley. At 77 Miss Monahan was the oldest June graduate of West Valley. Supt. James P. Hardy smiles approval and adds his applause for Miss Monahan's determination to receive her A.A. degree.

Straight A graduate lauds teacher influence at college

"A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops."

Henry Brook Adams said that many years ago and that was the theme hammered home by young Tom Glaser, valedictorian of the 1971 graduating class of West Valley College.

Glaser, who turned 20 the night of the June graduation, told his fellow graduates and audience his impression of where the world and he stood today in his address "Impressions of '71".

None was more qualified than Glaser to give the valedictory address. He is the first West Valley student to maintain a 4.0 (straight A) grade point average while attending the college.

Glaser told his audience that he had tried to dedicate himself to something "which I believe will be beneficial to all mankind. This is why I chose science." (Glaser is a pre-med student and intends to enroll at the University of Washington this fall. His father, who is deceased, was a doctor, as are his aunt and uncle with whom he resides at 21206 Sarahills Dr., Saratoga.)

He went on to explain that science means many things to people today and that some people believe science has caused much harm to society.

To this Glaser said "Science and technology have provided us with the tools that make it possible to improve the quality of life; the use to which those tools are put is a result of social forces scientists and those who apply science have in the past seldom been able to control."

The dark-haired youth explained that "people have taken knowledge science has given them and perverted it".

Glaser complimented recent educational innovations which have tried to enlighten the student on the dangers of "man's ability to exploit nature," but added that even education has not done enough.

Patients win hobby prizes at annual show

Three ladies from the Westgate Convalescent Hospital won first place ribbons in the 18th Annual Senior Citizen Hobby Show in San Francisco. Their work was done in Creative Design Class which meets at the hospital under the direction of Mrs. Siliva Muzzio, a Metropolitan Adult Education Program teacher.

Mrs. A. Emma has been in the hospital for three years. During that time she lost the sight in one eye but she still won her first prize ribbon for her colorful rooster design worked in yarn on burlap. Mrs. Emma is the mother of four and grandmother of six.

Mrs. Florence Weatherwax Graham Burke was born in 1885 and now has difficulty remembering the things which happen most recently. When shown her prize winning sampler bag she was uncertain as to whether it was her work.

Mrs. Frances Costa, a patient with muscular dystrophy, made her prize winning white lamb completely in French-knots. Mrs. Costa attends all the crafts offered and produces many fine works. This is quite an achievement since she must have help to raise her arms to the table to work.

A volunteer aide working with Mrs. Muzzio, Mrs. Margaret Favia, was impressed with the need of these patients for crafts and has volunteered to continue the program throughout the summer months while the regular Adult Education program discontinues.

Mrs. Doreen Keefe, activities director for the convalescent hospital, carries on a full time activities schedule and can use and train volunteers to help work with the patients.

Needs are in finger painting, bowling, bingo, sing along, doll shows, reading or just visiting.

Volunteers can call Mrs. Keefer at 253-7502.

The hospital also can use craft material donations.

Westgate Convalescent Center is located at 1601 Petersen Ave., San Jose (across from Prospect High School).

PRIZE WINNING HOBBIES--Mrs. Florence Burke, Mrs. A. Emma and Mrs. Frances Costa, display the handicraft work which won prizes for the three. All are confined to Westgate Convalescent Hospital and attended special classes at the hospital.

EASTFIELD BUS---Mrs. Ronald Rimkus, left, president of Eastfield Children's Center Board of Directors, accepts the key to a bus bought for the agency by members of the League of Eastfield. Making the presentation is Mrs. Jerry Dustimer, retiring president of the League, right. Mrs. Dell Wilkinson, new League president, looks on. The Eastfield League has presented a total of $13,700 to Eastfield during the year 1970-71. In addition to buying the bus, the donation went to underwrite the salary of a professional staff member at the agency, which is for treatment of emotionally handicapped children.

Handicapped seek "death traps"

A countywide drive to collect "death traps" in the form of abandoned refrigerators, ice-boxes, and freezers, will be conducted throughout the month of July by Handicapped War Veterans Crafts and Salvage Shops, Inc., it was announced today by HWV manager Irving R. Cabral.

Persons who know of unused refrigerators should call HWV at 296-2553 for a truck to pick up the appliances without charge. Since HWV began its yearly drive in 1963, no Santa Clara county youngsters have lost their lives in abandoned freezers. Last year alone, more than 600 ice-boxes were collected. Unsalvageable ones are dismantled, the doors removed, and the appliances are scrapped.

Cabral has been cited nationally for his work in the interest of child safety. This year, Cabral said that all appliances that may be hazardous will be collected by HWV, including washers and dryers.

Cabral said that HWV will pick up the appliances throughout the year, but that emphasis is placed on their removal in July, the most dangerous month, according to national safety reports.

The HWV store, 1082 Alviso St., Santa Clara, is oper seven days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., and the telephone number is accessible during this time.
